The film, largely about tit-for-tat vandalism between Laurel and Hardy as Christmas tree salesmen and the man who rejects them, was deemed culturally significant and entered into the National Film Registry in 1992.

Big Business (1929 film) - Wikipedia

The ever-increasing pace and fury of Big Business defies any criticism that this film is not typical Laurel and Hardy fare. Big Business has a spirit behind it like the last three Paramount Marx Brothers movies ---- all rationality goes out the window, everybody does what they feel like doing, consequences be damned.

Laurel and Hardy Central - Big Business

Big Business is considered by many Laurel and Hardy buffs (and I have to admit I'm one) to be their BEST silent film. In his book The Films of Laurel & Hardy William Everson writes that "one could not imprudently label (this film) the funniest two reels on film." For many years, according to one report, it was one of the most popular silent shorts.
