City Of London Police History

History of policing in the City of London. Policing in the City of London has existed since Roman times. Wood Street police station, also headquarters of the City Police, is built on part of the site of a Roman fortress.. Prior to 1839, the responsibility for policing in the City was divided, from the medieval period, between day and night City Watch, primarily under the two sheriffs.

The City of London is a city and local government district that contains the historic centre and the primary central business district (CBD) of London. It constituted most of London from its settlement by the Romans in the 1st century AD to the Middle Ages, but the agglomeration has since grown far beyond the City's borders. The City is now only a tiny part of the metropolis of London, though ...

January 28, 1820 - Jersey City was incorporated, although the area was still part of the Township of Bergen and by 1829 had its first watchman. This is an amazing fact because the British Parliament, in 1829, coined the word "police" and officially formed the first modern police department in London.
