There are multiple ways to resolve conflict. You can pursue scenarios in which both parties gain something. Or you can pursue scenarios in which both parties lose. To my mind, WIN-WIN is almost always the right choice. Here are two real-life examples of how different choices produce different outcomes.

WIN-WIN vs. LOSE-LOSE: Two Approaches to Conflict Resolution

A win-win game is game theory which is designed in a way that all participants can profit from the game in one way or the other. In conflict resolution, a win-win strategy is a collaborative strategy and conflict resolution process that aims to accommodate all participants. In economics, it is a voluntary transaction where both parties gain wealth, as in the double thank-you of capitalism

I've carried out a few short tests, and reckon that TextSeek shows a LOT of promise. Except for those goofy spelling errors (mentioned elsewhere on this page) -- such as "scaning" instead of "scanning" and "Scaning is done" -- and the fact that Australia is missing from the list of countries and regions, it's a rather big island that's impossible to miss on a map of the globe!
